THE NEBRASKA SITUATION.

The New Adjutant General Orders the Troops to Desert Thayer.

LINCOLN, Neb., Jan. 12.—The gubernatorial situation remains unchanged. Governor Boyd is recognized by all of the state officers, while Governor Thayer insists that he is still at the head of the government.

Saturday morning, when Gen. Viviquain, the new adjutant general, arrived at the capitol he found Capt. Rhody in command of twenty-five militiamen at ex-Governor Thayer's room.

He ordered the captain to go with him to Governor Boyd's room. The captain obeyed orders and leaving, saluted Governor Boyd as commander-in-chief, and awaited orders. In a few moments Gen. Viviquain gave him an order to repair with his command to the company's barracks and await orders. With this command in his hand he went with the general to Thayer's room, and ordering the company to fall in, gave the orders, "Reverse arms, forward, march."

Thayer entreated him to allow the militia to remain, but, saluting him, Capt. Rhody said: "I salute you for the last time. I recognize the authority of the commander-in-chief. Governor Boyd," and the company slowly marched from the state house to their barracks. The next move will be to forcibly eject Thayer from his present room, if he still persists in imagining himself governor.

Governor Thayer left his office Saturday evening in charge of the clerks and went home, and Governor Boyd left his office in charge of Private Secretary Higgins and went to Omaha.

EXPRESS CAR ROBBED.

Everything of Value Carried Off, But the Amount Not Definitely Known.

DETROIT, Jan. 12.—On the arrival of No. 16, one of the heaviest express trains on the Michigan Central railroad, at 6:30 Saturday morning, it was discovered that one of the American Express company's through cars from Chicago to New York, had been broken open and everything of value that could be caried off taken.

The thieves entered the car by smashing in the rear door with a sledge hammer. Every box in the car was broken open, and boxes that had evidently contained valuables were emptied. It will be impossible to tell the amount and value of the goods taken until the train arrives in New York and contents are checked off. Local Superintendent Higginbotham said he did not believe that the robberry amounted to much, as there where only a few small empty boxes in the car, and he did not think any boxes were carried away.

KILLED BY ELECTRICITY.

Two Fatalities Resulting from Handling Electric Light Wires.

BOSTON, Jan. 12.—At 234 Congress street yesterday afternoon John Tierney, a workman, attempted to replace a globe of an incandescent light which had become broken, and in doing so he took hold of the brass ring at the small end instead of the glass, and received a heavy shock, which killed him instantly.

In his fall he carried the globe and wire with him to the floor, the former so tightly grasped in his hand that the wire had to be cut before it could be removed. Tierney was 31 years old and unmarried.

Took Hold of the Guy Rope.

LYNCHBURG, Va., Jan. 12.—Jerry Sullivan, a 13-year-old boy, caught hold of a guy wire attached to an electric light pole yesterday afternoon and received a shock that killed him instantly.

HIGHWAY ROBBERY.

Two Masked Men Make a Valuable Haul in Chicago.

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—About 9 o'clock last night as Charles M. Tealowoney was passing the corner of Michigan avenue and Twenty-Third street, two masked men suddenly sprang from a doorway, and leveling revolvers at his head, ordered him to give up his valuables.

After robbing him of $25 in gold and bills, a sight draft on the Bank of England for $1,500, a diamond stud and a gold watch and chain, they tied him to an iron railing and escaped. The draft for $1,500 was made payable to bearer and can be cashed at any bank. No clew to the robbers.

Funeral of Judge Charles Devens.

BOSTON, Jan. 12.—The funeral of the late Judge Charles Devens was held from Trinity church at 1 p. m. yesterday and was under the charge of the Loyal Legion, whose purple banner was planted in the Northern transept, while the flag of the Grand Army drooped from its staff in the southern. The coffin was borne into the church on the shoulders of eight non-commissioned officers of the Second artillery from Fort Warren. The Episcopal service was read in the presence of a vast assemblage of representatives of the Loyal Legion, G. A. R., state, supreme and superior courts, state, city, Masons and [illegible]. Phillips Brooks pronounced the funeral oration, after which a lengthy [illegible] proceeded to Mount Auburn cemetery where the interment took place.

THE INDIAN BATTLE.

It Did Not Take Place as Was Expected.

THE HOSTILES COMING IN.

Three Thousand of the Returning Indians Within Five Miles of Pine Ridge Agency and Will Soon Reach That Place — Captain Pierce Reaches the Agency and Takes Charge in Place of Agent Royer.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Gen. Schofield last night received a dispatch from Gen. Miles at Pine Ridge, stating that the entire body of hostile Indians, about 3,000 in number, have arrived within five miles of Pine Ridge, and that he expected they would reach the agency on Monday. Gen. Miles also reports that Capt. Pierce had arrived at Pine Ridge and taken charge in place of Agent Royer.

The commissioner of Indian affairs yesterday received a dispatch from Agent McLaughlin, at Fort Yates, N. Dak., stating that the report that Indians were leaving the Standing Rock agency is entirely unfounded, and that none have left since the battle in which Sitting Bull was killed. Three hundred and seventy-two men, women and children are now absent, of whom 227 are prisoners at Fort Sully. On the 3d inst. Gen. Miles telegraphed the post commander that seventy-two Standing Rock Indians were made prisoners at Pine Ridge agency, leaving only seventy-three unaccounted for of the 409 that were absent before the stampede. Newspaper reports that Indians at Standing Rock are restless and unsettled are absurd. The Standing Rock Indians are under control, loyal to the government and can be depended upon, the agent says, to remain so, as all disaffection has been effectually eradicated with the department and subjugation of Sitting Bull's followers.

The Indian bureau has also received a dispatch from Agent Waugh at Devil's Lake, N. Dak., stating that there is no truth in the report that the Turtle mountain Indians threaten trouble. The monthly report of the agent at the Cheyenne river agency states that there is and has been no trouble among those Indians, reports to the contrary notwithstanding.

In response to a telegram from the commissioner of Indian affairs, who inquired of Elaine Goodale, supervisor of education at the Pine Ridge agency how many returned students and parents of school children are among the hostiles, the supervisor says that it is impossible to ascertain just who the hostiles are, but in a general way it is safe that those who have participated in the ghost dance and subsequent disturbances are of the wilder heathen element among the Sioux. A great majority of the Christian and educated Indians have remained loyal at the sacrifice of name and property and at the risk of their lives.

Soldiers Pressing the Hostiles.

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—A special to The Tribune from Pine Ridge, S. Dak., says: At a late hour Saturday evening a scout brought in word that the hostile camp had started for the agency. The soldiers are pressing the hostiles close to prevent escape.

Col. Corbin has received official information that the hostiles were camped at the Catholic mission Sunday morning. "Barring accidents," said Col. Corbin, "the entire camp will soon be here. With them they have forty wounded. The danger that we now have to apprehend is that a shot fired by some buck may excite the others. The matter of disarmament will not yet be touched by the military authorities."

At the Turtle Mountain Reservation.

WINNIPEG, Man., Jan. 12.—Alarm has been caused in the southern part of the province by a report brought to Deloraine that the Indians have left the Turtle mountain reservation south of the boundary and gone on the warpath, plundering settlers and killing cattle. Forty families or more in North Dakota have taken refuge in Bottineau and more are coming in in great alarm. Sunday morning a detachment of ninety mounted police left Regina to reinforce the detachment at Deloraine and prevent the Indians crossing the boundary.

Letter From Father Craft.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—Gen. O. Beirne received a letter yesterday from Father Craft, the Catholic priest who was wounded in the recent fight with Big Foot's band of Sioux Indians. Father Craft says he has disappointed all the laws of medicine and all the prophets, and is steadily improving. He was stabbed in the back while trying to stop the fight, the knife penetrating his right lung. He says the Indians fired first, and that the troops were not to blame for the wholesale killing, as everything was done at close quarters. Father Craft has drawn a map of the battlefield, which he will forward with a full description of the fight as soon as he is able to write. The situation at present, he thinks, is very serious.

Would-Be Wife Murderer Kills Himself.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Jan. 12.—Saturday afternoon Charles Ma[illegible], aged 22, a young blacksmith, started out with a pistol in his pocket to kill his wife, whom he had married not a year ago, and who was living apart from him. She saw him coming and locked all the doors, so he could not get in. He then stood outside and putting the revolver in his mouth, killed himself instantly.

An Indiana Man Killed in New Mexico.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Jan. 12.—A passenger train was derailed by a broken rail at Wa[illegible] Station yesterday. Engineer George H. He[illegible] jumped and was caught under the express car and killed. No one else was injured. He[illegible] lived in Michigan City, Ind., where his body will be shipped for burial.

SIGNAL DISREGARDED.

A Collision on the Manhattan Elevated Railroad in New York City.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—At 9:15 o'clock Sunday morning a collision occurred on the Third avenue line of the Manhattan Elevated railway which completely demolished one engine, seriously damaged another, injured two men and created a panic among four carloads of passengers. A switch engine was employed in making up trains on the middle track, and in the course of her work was run out on the down track at One Hundred and Eighteenth street, the danger signal being set to cover her. Disregarding the signal the engineer of a south bound train continued on his way until his engine, with four loaded cars behind her, crashed into the switch engine with such force as to carry her a distance of forty feet, tearing away the footpath and railing of the structure, and throwing her into the street twenty feet below.

The engineer and fireman of the switcher were thrown from their engine to the middle track and the former was seriously and the latter slightly hurt. The collision knocked out a cylinder head of the passenger engine and the escaping steam together with the shock of the colliding engines filled the passengers with alarm, but none of them was hurt. The switch engine which fell into the street was broken to pieces. In its descent it smashed a wagon standing by the curbstone, but miraculously did no other damages.

A Child Horribly Mangled by Wolves.

WICHITA, Kan., Jan. 12.—Wolves are invading the western border counties of Kansas in great packs in search of food. A short distance from Liberal, Sunday morning, Mrs. Garvey and her child were attacked by a pack of wolves a few steps from their home, and, while the woman escaped with slight injuries, the boy was carried some distance and mangled so horribly that he cannot recover. The men about the place finally beat off the savage beasts.

Electric Car Jumps the Track.

PITTSBURG, Jan. 12.—An electric car, crowded with passengers, on the Second avenue street railroad, jumped the track at the corner of Tenth street and Second avenue, at 10:30 Saturday night, and fell over a trestle about fifteen feet high. Maggie Delehanty was badly bruised and received internal injuries. Thomas McClelland had his leg broken and nearly all the other passengers were pretty badly bruised or cut.

Valuable Saw Mill Burned.

NORFOLK, Va., Jan. 12.—Fire yesterday afternoon destroyed the saw mill of the Tunis Lumber company who have a $2,000,000 plant in South Norfolk. But for a heavy rain which prevailed at the time millions of feet of lumber would have been burned. The saw mill was burned to the ground. Loss, $100,000; insured.

LABOR TROUBLES.

Eight Hundred Stone Cutters Locked Out in Chicago—Other Labor News.

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—Eight hundred journeymen stone cutters employed in fifty-six stone yards, were locked out Saturday by the Stone Cutters' association, until the stone cutters union recognizes the rules and regulations recently adopted by the Stone Cutters association.

The rule which the men object to mostly is the following: "The union shall not be permitted to discipline the employer for any reason whatever."

This rule the union consider a blow at their union, which by constitution, has a right to impose a fine ranging from $100 to $500 upon any employer employing a stone cutter at less than the scale, which is $4 for a day's work. The trouble will probably be settled by arbitration.

Strike Declared Off.

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—The steam-fitters' strike, which has extended over a period of several months, has ended in the unconditional surrender of the men. The men struck for increase of wages about [illegible]. Their union Saturday night declared the strike off and work has resumed in the various steam-fitting establishments of the city.

Coke Furnaces Close Down.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Jan. 12.—All the furnaces in the Monongahela and Shenango valleys, twenty three in number, closed down yesterday. The shut down is due to the high railroad rates and the high price of coke.

SENATOR HEARST DYING.

The Family Have Given Up All Hope, and Relatives Have Been Summoned.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—A Washington special says: Senator George Hearst is at death's door. His family has given up all hope of his recovery, and the relatives have been summoned to his bedside. William R. Hearst, the senator's son, has just arrived. John Follinsby, who has charge of the senator's possessions at Chihuahua, Mex., and Capt. E. Mertz, the manager of the senator's mining property, are also in Washington. They say he is liable to pass away at almost any time.

The malady—cancer of the stomach—has grown far more aggravated within the past day or two, and the senator suffers intensely. His seventy-two years makes the fight for life one-sided, and news of his death may now be expected at almost any hour. His men of affairs have been engaged recently in invoicing his estate and they say that he will leave a fortune of at least $20,000,000.

A WRECK ON THE PAN HANDLE.

An Engine and Twenty Cars Demolished at Woodstock—Several Men Slightly Hurt—Collision of Freight Trains on the Baltimore and Ohio Road—Other Buckeye Items.

URBANA, O., Jan. 12.—One of the most disastrous wrecks that has occurred on this division of the Pan-Handle for some time, was at Woodstock, this county, Saturday. The eastbound freight train, No. 80, is due at Woodstock at 10 o'clock. The train runs in two sections, and the first section was going on a siding. A coupling-pin coming out delayed the train. The first section was standing across the track, when the second section came thundering down the track. A heavy fog prevented the approaching train from seeing Section 1 in the way, and went into her with a crash. Cars were piled on top of the engines twenty feet high.

Engineer William Harris and Fireman E. E. Hein, of Columbus, seeing the danger, jumped from the engine. Harris had his shoulder dislocated, and Hein was cut and had an arm broken. F. W. Tank, brakeman of Section 2, was badly bruised. The crew of the other train were not injured. Twenty cars loaded with meat, grain, glucose and general merchandise were totally destroyed, as was the engine of Section 2. The loss is estimated at from $20,000 to $30,000.

Collision of Freight Trains.

FOSTORIA, O., Jan. 12.—Two freight trains on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad collided near North Baltimore, fifteen miles west of this city, Saturday afternoon. Train 42, going east, with Conductor Darr, left North Baltimore ahead of time, and crashed into Train 37, going west, with Conductor Martin in charge. Fireman Hawkey, of Garrett, was caught between the engine and tender and was so badly scalded and mangled that he will die. The engineer of Train 42 had his shoulder broken, and the engineer and fireman on 37 are also badly hurt. A dense fog prevailed at the time of the collision. Both engines were completly wrecked.

Swindled by a Discharged Agent.

MASSILLON, O., Jan. 12.—A young man named J. H. Coder, who was employed as supervisor of agents for The Pittsburg Dispatch, was discharged two weeks ago for irregularities, but retained his credentials. He came here a day or two ago, represented that he was still in the employ of The Dispatch, and collected a bill of $24 from The Independent company. When the company advised The Dispatsh of the transaction, that paper promptly sent a man from the business department, who arrived Saturday, reimbursed The Independent, and is making all possible efforts to apprehend the swindler. Coder belongs to a good family in Indianapolis.

A Youthful Incendiary.

SANDUSKY, O., Jan. 12.—The origin of the recent fires here, which destroyed over $100,000 worth of property, was discovered Saturday through the confession of George Booth, aged 14 years, who said he had set the Big Four Railway company's elevator and offices here on fire. The Big Four company lost about $40,000 by the fire, and the Sandusky Lumber company lost over $60,000. He was taken to the reform school Saturday night. When asked why he set the buildings on fire he said he wanted to create some excitement.

FOREIGN EVENTS.

Funeral of the Late Duke Nicholas of Leuchtenburg—Other Cable News.

PARIS, Jan. 12.—The funeral of the late Duke Nicholas of Leuchtenburg took place Saturday with imposing ceremonies. As had been anticipated, the occasion was made significant as a Russian demonstration. The services were held in the Russian church. The cortege was headed by a detachment of artillery and cavalry. Prince Orloff and Baron Pachoff, mounted, followed. They preceded a car on which reposed the late duke's decorations.

The car was covered with a golden pall, reserved for use in funerals of members of the imperial family of Russia. Behind this car rode the military household of President Carnot of the French republic. Next came the late duke's two sons, members of the Russian embassy; President Floquet, of the chamber of deputies; Ministers Ribot, Barbey and Develle, Gens. Saussier and Appert, and a number of senators and deputies. The route of the funeral procession was lined with troops.

Battle at Fortress Niora.

PARIS, Jan. 12.—Advices received here from St. Louis, the chief town of Senegal, bring the news that the French troops under Commander Archinard have carried by assault the fortress of Niora, belonging to the Sultan Ahmad. During the battle 400 natives were killed and wounded of the 8,000 natives engaged in the fight. On the French side fifty-one native soldiers were killed and several were dangerously wounded.

MARINE DISASTER.

Two Vessels Collide in the Frith of Forth, and Both Sink.

LONDON, Jan. 12.—The steamer Britannia, from Leith, came into collision with the steamer Bear, from Grange Mouth, in the Frith of Forth, Scotland, at an early hour Sunday morning. The Bear sank immediately, her crew having no time to launch a boat or make any effort whatever to save themselves.

Of the fourteen men on board the Bear twelve went down with the vessel. The two others were rescued by a boat from the Britannia. After the collision the Britannia, which was badly damaged, transferred her forty five passengers to the steamer Thames, and was then taken in tow by that vessel, the two steamers proceeding slowly in the direction of Leith. They had not gone far, however, before the hawser connecting the vessel was snapped asunder, and before another line could be carried to the damaged vessel she gave a terrific plunge and sank beneath the waves.

Fortunately the crew had put on life belts after the collision with the Bear, and all, with the exception of the chief engineer, managed to keep afloat until they were picked up by boats from the steamer Thames. The chief engineer went down with the vessel, and nothing was seen of him again.

LAWLESS ACTS OF FARMERS.

It Is to Be Deplored That Their Lands are Mortgaged.

WICHITA, Kan., Jan. 12.—The attorney for the Johnson Loan and Trust company, of Arkansas City, and Sheriff Dobson, of Harper county, had an experience which confirms the belief that the Farmers' Alliance intends preventing, by force, if necessary, all foreclosure sales of farms. The loan company hold judgments against farms in the western part of Harper county in the sum of nearly $5,000, and, armed with orders of sale, the officer and attorney Saturday proceeded to offer the property at auction.

No sooner was their purpose understood than some twenty irate farmers tore the paper from their hands, and, with angry threats of violence, ordered them from the neighborhood. Not being ready for a fight, the sheriff desisted but proposed to return Monday with a force sufficient to guarantee the sale and the arrest of the ringleaders in Saturday's attack. About three weeks ago a similar case was reported from Kingman county, and it seems evident that the farmers, who are instructed from headquarters, are banded together to hold their lands at any cost.

Kuhns' Seems Contented.

Marvin Kuhns is now safely domiciled in the Seneca county jail, and as he is guarded both day and night by two faithful watchmen, there will be little opportunity for his escape, says the Tiffin Advertiser. During Wednesday forenoon he was inclined to feel gloomy and morose, but he has overcome that and now laughs and jokes with the guards and regales them and his fellow prisoners who are within hearing, with narratives of his remarkable exploits. His appetite, too, which seemed to have deserted him, has returned, and he now partakes heartily of the prison fare, which the guards pronounce excellent and abundant. Kuhns has an undisguised antipathy of newspaper people, but he treats the press here quite courteously and promises the Advertiser that he will talk some day for publication and will give a sketch of his eventful life.

Both Kuhns and Campeau were in Tiffin last September and ran a wheel of fortune during the fair. They were callers at the Mayor's office on several occasions to secure a license, but Mayor Fanning would not issue the permit to them. The Mayor remembers them well, and says that Campeau, who has a decidedly French accent, did most of the talking.

His case was taken up by the grand jury and there is every probability that Kuhns will be indicted for murder in the first degree. Coroner Lepper and the Fostoria city authorities are confident that a conviction will follow.

It has been the general impression that Kuhns' trial would not come before the spring term of the court of common pleas, but a prominent attorney expresses the opinion that unless some unexpected complications exist in the defense, the case will be tried during the present term, which will continue for six weeks.

[illegible] I remark the [illegible] will find many of [illegible] who are at [illegible] There are [illegible] churches. Some[illegible] church made up [illegible] everything seems [illegible] you of [illegible] which by [illegible] greenness [illegible] taken, and [illegible] and delicate [illegible] All that is [illegible] over them. [illegible] has only [illegible] and brush [illegible] illuminated in [illegible] and then [illegible] beautiful and del-here as before. Everything is finished —finished sermons, finished music, finished architecture, finished everything.

Another church is like an armory, the sound of drum and fife calling more recruits to the Lord's army. We say to the applicants, "Come in and get your equipment. Here is the [illegible] in which you are to be clothed. Here is the helmet you are to put on your head, here are the sandals you are to put on your feet, here is the breast plate you are to put over your heart, here is the sword you are to take in your right hand and fight his battle with. Quit yourselves like men."

There are those here, perhaps, who say, "It is now ten, fifteen years since I was in the habit, the regular habit, of church going." I know all about your case. I am going to tell you something that will be startling at the first, and that is that you are going to become the Lord's sheep. "Oh," you say, "that is impossible; you don't know my case; you don't know how far I am from anything of that kind." I know all about your case. I have been up and down the world. I know why some of you do not attend upon Christian services.

I go further, and make another announcement in regard to you, and that is, you are not only to become the Lord's sheep, but you are going to become the Lord's sheep this hour. God is going to call you graciously by his spirit; you are going to come into the fold of Christ. This sermon shall not be so much for those who are Christians. I have preached to them hundreds and thousands of times. The sermon that I preach now is going to be chiefly for those who consider themselves outsiders, but who may happen to be in the house, and the chief employment of the Christian people here today will be to pray for those who are not accustomed to attend upon Christian sanctuaries.

When the steamer Atlantic went to pieces on Mars Rock why did that brave minister of the gospel, of whom we have all read, go out in the lifeboat? Why did he not stay and look after the passengers that got ashore, wrapping flannels around them, and kindling fires for them, and preparing them food. There was plenty of work to be done on shore for those who had already escaped. Ah! that brave man knew that there were others who would take care of those, and so he said: "Man the lifeboat! Pull away, my lads, pull away! Yonder is a man; there is a woman freezing in the rigging. Pull away!" I see the oar blades bend in the strong pull of the oarsmen. Then they come up to the wreck. The woman is frozen. She drops into the wave—alas! poor woman—and washes out to sea. But then Mr. Ancient says, "There is a man yet hanging to the rigging. Pull away, my lads! pull away!" They come up, and he says, "Hold now there five minutes and we will save you. Steady! steady! Now give me your hand. Leap! Thank God, he is saved! Thank God, he is saved!"

So there are men now in the breakers. They have made a shipwreck of life. While we come out to save them, some are swept off—swept off before we can reach them—and there are others still hanging on. Steady there among the slippery places! Steady! Leap into this lifeboat! Now is your chance for heaven! This hour some of you are going to be saved. Far away from God, you are going to be brought nigh. "Other sheep have I which are not of this fold."

Christ says that ministers of the gospel are to be fishers for men. Now, when I go fishing I do not want to fish in anybody else's pond. I do not want to go along Hohokus creek, where there are ten or fifteen men fishing, and drop my line just about where they are dropping their lines. I should like to get in a Newfoundland fishing smack and push out to sea fifty miles beyond the breakers. I do not think the Church of God gains a great deal when you take sheep from one fold and put them in another fold. It is the lost sheep on the mountains you want to bring back—the lost sheep on the mountains. And they are coming today.

You are now this hour in the tide of Christian influences. You are going to be swept in; your voice is going to be heard in prayer, you are going to be consecrated to God; you are going to live a life of usefulness, and your death-bed is going to be surrounded by Christian sympathizers, and devout men will carry you to your burial when your work is done, and these words will be chiseled for your epitaph: "Precious in the sight of the Lord is the death of his saints." And all that history is going to begin today. "Other sheep have I which are not of this fold."

Again I remark, the Heavenly Shepherd is going to find many of his sheep among those who are now rejecters of Christianity. I do not know how you came to reject Christianity. I do not know whether it was through hearing Theodore Parker preach, or whether it was reading Renan's "Life of Jesus" or whether it was through some skeptic in the store or factory. Or it may be—probably is the case—that you were disgusted with religion and disgusted with Christianity because some man who professed to be a Christian de[illegible] and he [illegible] a member of the [illegible] and you [illegible] a representative of the Christian religion, you said. Well, if that is reason, I do [illegible] of it.

I do not know how you came to reject [illegible] I [illegible] you [illegible] not think the Bible is the word of God, although there are many things in it you admire, you do not think that [illegible] Divine Being [illegible] was a very [illegible] The Bible is true [illegible] Bible be true [illegible] earlier part of the Bible [illegible] And there are fifty [illegible] you do not believe [illegible] tell me in regard to [illegible] an accommodating [illegible] person. If I should [illegible] ask of you a favor you would [illegible] if it were possible [illegible] for you to grant me a favor [illegible] your friends came to [illegible] an accommodation [illegible] accommodate them [illegible] you would be.

Now I am going to ask of you a favor. I want you to [illegible] The accommodation will cost you nothing, and you will give me great happiness. Of course you will not [illegible] want you as an experiment to try the Christian religion. If it does not [illegible] the test, discard it, if it does not [illegible]

If you were very sick, and you had been given up of the doctors, and I came to you, and I took a bottle of medicine from my pocket and said, "Here is medicine I am sure will help you, it has cured fifty people," you would say, "Oh, I haven't any confidence in it; they tell me all these medicines will fail me." "Well," I say, "will you not, as a matter of accommodation to myself, just try it?" "Well," you say, "I have no objection to trying it; if it will be any satisfaction to you I will try it." You take it. Now you are sick in disquietude, sick in sin. You are not happy. You laugh sometimes when you are miserable. There come surges of unhappiness over your soul that almost swamp you. You are unhappy, struck through with unrest. Now, will you not try this dose, this febrifuge, this anodyne, this Gospel medicine?

"Oh," you say, "I haven't any faith in it." As a matter of accommodation, let me introduce you to the Lord Jesus Christ, the Great Physician. "Why," you say, "I haven't any faith in him." Well, now, will you not just let him come and try his power on your soul. Just let me introduce him to you. I do not ask you to take my word for it. I do not ask you to take the advice of clergymen. Perhaps the clergy [illegible] may be prejudiced, perhaps we may be speaking professionally, perhaps we may give you wrong advice, perhaps we are morbid on that subject, so I do not ask you to take the advice of clergymen. I ask you to take the advice of very respectable laymen, such as William Shakespeare, the dramatist, as William Wilberforce, the statesman, as Isaac Newton, the astronomer, as Robert Boyle, the philosopher, as Locke, the metaphysician, as Morse, the electrician.

These men never preached—they never pretended to preach, but they come out, and putting down one his telescope, and another the electrician's wire, and another the parliamentary scroll—they come out, and they commend Christ as a comfort to all the people, a Christ that the world needs. Now I do not ask you to take the advice of clergymen. Take the advice of these laymen. It does not make any difference to me at this juncture what you have said against the Bible, it does not make any difference to me at this juncture how you may have caricatured religion. Take the advice of men who are prominent in secular affairs, as these men whom I have mentioned and others who immediately occur to your mind. You see I do not scoff at skepticism. I never scoff at skepticism. I have been a natural skeptic. I do not know what the first word was that I uttered after entering the world, but I think it must have been "why?"

There were times when I doubted the existence of God, when I doubted the divinity of Christ, when I doubted the immortality of the soul, when I doubted my own existence, when I doubted everything. I have been through the whole curriculum of doubt, and you can tell me nothing new about it. I have come out from a great Sahara desert into the calm, warm, sunshiny land of the gospel. I know about the other land. I have been there. You can tell me nothing new about it. And I know all about the other condition of which you do not know anything—the peace, the comfort, the joy, the triumph of trusting in God and in Jesus Christ whom he has sent. So I am not scoffing in regard to it.

There are some things I believe that you do not, but there are some things that I believe and you do believe. You believe in love—a father's love, a mother's love, a wife's love, a child's love. Now let me tell you God loves you more than all of them together, and you must come in, you will come in. Christ looks in all tenderness with the infinite tenderness of the gospel, into your soul, and he says, "This is your time for heaven;" and then he waves his hand to the people of God and he says, "Other sheep have I which are not of this fold."

Again I remark, the Heavenly Shepherd is going to get many of his sheep among those who have been of [illegible] hac[illegible]

It [illegible] me to see how soon Christian people give up the prodigal. I hear Christian people talk as though they thought the grace of God were a chain of forty or fifty links, and when they had run out them there was nothing to touch the depth of a man's iniquity. If a man were out hunting for deer and got off the track of the deer he would hunt amid the bushes and the brakes longer for the lost game than he would look for a lost soul.

[illegible] the de[illegible]

is far [illegible] "Other sheep have I which are not of this fold." [illegible] the gospel I do not [illegible] the gospel is. It can [illegible] I think [illegible] why [illegible] not [illegible] swing [illegible]

Now [illegible] whom I have any [illegible] those who have [illegible] the gospel for perhaps [illegible] thirty forty years. They [illegible] they tell you [illegible] the Lord Jesus Christ [illegible] have not been [illegible] God. They are [illegible] hardened. The gospel [illegible] upon them than the [illegible] on the city pavement. The publicans and the harlots go into the kingdom of God before they. They [illegible] some of them [illegible] of 1857, when 500,000 souls were brought to God. Some of them went through great revivals in [illegible] Still unpardoned, [illegible] They were mere spectators. Gospel hardened! After a while you will hear that they are sick, and then that they are dead, and then that they [illegible] without any hope. Gospel hardened!

But I turn away from all such with [illegible] to those who are not gospel hardened. Some of you here not [illegible] perhaps five sermons in five years. This whole subject has been a novelty to you for some time. You are not gospel hardened, you know you are not gospel hardened. The whole [illegible] comes freshly to your mind. I [illegible] "Oh, my wasted life! Oh, the [illegible] past! Oh, the graves I've stumbled over! Whither shall I [illegible] is so dark, so dark, [illegible] gone.

[illegible] for that last utter[illegible] a prayer and a soon as [illegible] that turns heaven [illegible] and he [illegible] the [illegible] of temptation [illegible] and he throws all [illegible] the covert of [illegible] I heard some [illegible] It was the [illegible] the bars of [illegible] The [illegible] and [illegible] comes [illegible] torn of [illegible] feet [illegible] in [illegible] sheep have I [illegible] of this fold."

[illegible] any of you should [illegible] of the dying [illegible] [illegible] as my final state [illegible] terrible and [illegible] Oh, [illegible] I recall [illegible] I have wasted [illegible] splendid passes [illegible] state, and I [illegible] and [illegible] attended by my servants and physicians. My dependants weep, my sisters weep, my father bends beneath a load of years and grief. But oh! which of these will answer my summons at the high tribunal? And which of these will bid me from the arrest of death? While some flattering panegyric is pronounced at my interment, I may be hearing my just condemnation at a supreme tribunal. Adieu!"

ODDS AND ENDS.

If you catch an animal in a steel trap every minute it stays there its meat is growing worse.

Germany produced in 1889, 2,372,113 tons of wheat, 5,553,126 tons of rye, 1,138,119 tons of barley and 4,137,124 tons of oats.

Among the latest oddities seen in the grocer shops are preserved nuts—chestnuts, walnuts and other kernels put in bottles just like fruit. It is a German idea, and they are said to be delicious for dessert.

Guarding Boxes on the Street.

When the cold wind whistles through the streets at night it makes life vastly uncomfortable for the men who are paid to guard piles of boxes left on the pavement outside the big wholesale houses. If they do their duty conscientiously, these watchmen are bound to get a pretty fair notion of what a real winter night is. There is one of them, however, who manages to get some comfort out of his chilly trade. The other night he was seen taking his ease in the midst of a lot of packing cases in a street near Broadway. An empty box, set with its open end toward the middle of the street, had been furnished within with a piece of old carpeting, which served the double purpose of keeping out the draughts and at the same time of making a rather easier seat.

In front of the open end of the box stood an old iron ash can, with holes enough in the bottom to secure plenty of draught for the fire that blazed within. With this extemporized furnace a feet few from the entrance to his sentry box, the watchman sat in state. The wind could not get at him, and the fire kept him fairly warm. Moreover, his duties were not of a nature to bother him greatly. He was in the heart of the business district and few persons were likely to venture through the street, while the wind was keen enough to make a raid by hoodlums hardly to be expected. A few blocks away another guard was found without the inventive genius of his fellow. He was bundled up in overcoats, but he looked as cold as a country cousin's welcome to town.—New York Times.

A Rubber Sidewalk.

There is a length of rubber sidewalk in Edinburgh, and I want to tell you it is the finest sidewalk in the world. It is only about 25 feet long, and the sidewalk is about 8 feet wide. The rubber is flat, I so as to allow the water to run off quickly, and the surface is the most comfortable to walk on that can well be imagined. You can't slip if you try, and there is a spring and a "give" that is most restful to the tired man.

It was laid as an advertisement by a shopkeeper who sells "macintoshes" and "[illegible]," as he calls rubber coats and rubbers, and although the expense must have been heavy I imagine it must have yielded good results. He told me the rubber was two inches thick and was laid on a four inch bed of concrete. In four years it has shown no appreciable signs of wear, but [illegible] cut it in places.—Interview St. Louis Globe Democrat.

POISONED ARROWS OF THE PYGMIES.

Terrible Wounds and Suffering Caused by the Weapons of Africa.

When we [illegible] who [illegible] arrows we were not [illegible] to be [illegible] impressed with the [illegible] we received [illegible] 1887, during [illegible] Wounds [illegible] ages. Young fellows inspired by the example of Lieut. S[illegible] rushed with brave [illegible] into the front and the tiny arrows sailed in showers past them, but some of them found their [illegible] and were arrested [illegible] arms and shoulders. [illegible] the young men drew them out and flung them away, and some [illegible] and an[illegible] the savage [illegible] which [illegible] bearing [illegible] the arrows with which they had been wounded.

When the day's fight was over of course we had leisure to examine the arrows, and our anxiety was great when we observed that they had been freshly smeared with a brown, gummy like substance which [illegible] a subtle acrid odor, with a [illegible] in it. The arrows seemed to have been plunged into a pot containing a goodly quantity of a resinous substance, and twirled around in it and well soaked and then lifted up in a bunch and covered over with a [illegible] or a piece of phrynium leaf. Quivers full of the arrows showed us that the weapons were considered by their owners to be dangerous, for those so smeared were tied together, head downward, and apart from the others.

* Yet the wounds made by these slender arrows were mere punctures, such as might have been made by finely pointed butchers' skewers, and being exceedingly ignorant of the effect, we contented ourselves with syringing them with warm water and dressing them with bandages. In some instances affectionate men sucked their comrades' wounds, to make sure that nothing of the substance should be left to irritate them. In no instance was this method of any avail. All who were wounded either died after terrible sufferings from tetanus, or developed such dreadful gangrenous tumors as to incapacitate them from duty for long periods, or wreck their constitutions so completely by blood poisoning that their lives became a burden to them.—Henry M. Stanley in Scribner's.

Longevity and Country Life.

How great the difference is between an urban and a rural population in the average age of all who die may be conveniently illustrated from the registration reports of Massachusetts, which have been published for forty-seven years. In the thirty years from 1850 to 1880 the average age of all the persons who died in Suffolk county, an urban county on the seaboard, was 23 1-2 years; the average age of all persons who died in Barnstable, a rural county on the same seaboard, was 37; in Franklin, an inland rural county, 38 1-2; while the average age of all the persons who died in the island county of Nantucket during the thirty years was very nearly double the average age at death in Suffolk—namely, 46.15.

The same reports show that the annual death rate is uniformly higher in the densely populated counties than in the sparsely populated ones. Other causes besides density of population contribute to produce these striking results, but the main fact remains that a family which lives in the country has a better chance of continuance than one that lives in the city. Moreover, if the family history of the actual leaders, for the time being, in business and the professions in any American city, be studied, it will usually be found that a very large proportion of them were country bred. The country breeding gives a vigor and an endurance which in the long run outweigh all city advantages, and enable the well endowed country boys to outstrip all their competitors.—President C. W. Eliot in Forum.

Unselfish.

There are usually at least two ways of looking at a thing and it is well now and then to change one's point of view. Little Hans had just begun his school life, and his mother was ambitious to have him keep a high standing in his class.

"Why, Hans," she said regretfully at the end of his second week, "last week you gave me so much pleasure by getting to be at the head of your class, and now you are only number four, I see."

"Yes'm, I know," admitted the little fellow, with great gravity; "but then," he added, "some other boy's mamma had the pleasure this week, so I thought perhaps you wouldn't mind so very much."

"You're quite right, Hans," said his mother, giving him an appreciative smile. "I don't mind it at all—now!"—Youth's Companion.

Buried in Two Places.

The true burial place of Columbus has been a mooted point for many years, and it would seem that the remains of that illustrious discoverer rest in two places, San Domingo and Genoa. However the truth of this statement has never been satisfactorily proven.—Detroit Free Press.

Increase in Telegraphic Figures.

The increase in the ocean cable and land telegraph facilities during the decade is again indicative of the growth of the city of New York, for the entire system is tributary to and greatly dependent upon the metropolis. In 1880 there were 185,615 miles of cables in existence. In 1890 there were 283,917. The Western Union and Postal companies now control 778,697 miles of wires, against a total of 233,534 in 1880. There were 10,077 offices in operation during 1880, but their number has now been increased to 22,382. The total number of messages sent over the wires in 1880 was 39,512,901, but the total is now estimated for 1890 at 83,781,627. The receipts for 1880 were $16,827,913. Last year they were $31,781,282. The profits in 1880 were $7,303,379, but during the year 1890 they are estimated at $10,123,298. The expenses for 1880 were $8,498,293, while for last year the estimate is $18,740,609.—New York World.
